

Canada's Farm Lands

THROUGHOUT THE PAST YEAR interesting information concerning areas of farm lands in Canada have been gathered in the taking of the 1951 census have been assembled by the statisticians. Among these many facts were some concerning the farming population and the acres of farm land under cultivation in Canada at the time the census was taken. The figures show that there are 54,509 fewer farmers now than there were in 1941, but that the number of acres under farm cultivation has increased by 480,581. The largest increase in farm acreage has been in British Columbia, where 18.4 per cent more land is now being farmed. The number of farms that province has increased by 21.1 per cent, showing that the average holding there is now smaller than it was ten years ago.

Figures Show Fewer Farms

The other Western provinces all show decreases in the number of occupied farms in the ten year period. Saskatchewan had 132,713 occupied farms in 1941 and 110,018 in 1951. In Manitoba there was a drop from 98,076 to 92,293. In Alberta there was a drop from 194,000 to 184,000 occupied farms. Several reasons are given for this in the number of occupied farms. The trend toward consolidation of farms and the growing acreage in the hands of a few large farms are factors which have also contributed to the decline. A shift in population to the cities has taken many from the farms, while the rapid growth of nearly all the larger cities has resulted in the taking in of farm lands in the surrounding areas.

Reasons Given For Decrease

Some of the decreases may also be explained by the fact that in 1941 a farm was described as "one acre or more in which agricultural products worth fifty dollars or more in 1940." In the 1951 census a farm was designated as "a holding of three acres or more in which agricultural products worth fifty dollars or more in 1940." While the figures have shown a decrease in the number of farms, they also show an increase in the average acreage under cultivation in all the Western provinces. In Saskatchewan the number of acres under cultivation has increased from 10,486,907 to 11,680,186. In Alberta it has risen from 43,277,200 to 44,450,652, and in Manitoba the increase has been from 16,891,520 to 17,730,285. In many of the smaller cities of the West, the population has increased and has brought under cultivation, and Canada is fortunate in being one of the few nations where agriculture is still a expanding industry.

Hog Sales in Manitoba Up

WINNIPEG, Man.—Hog marketing in Manitoba from Jan. 1 to Nov. 17 there was 50 per cent increase over the corresponding period in 1951. The provincial department of agriculture reports.

Indications are the peak of the hog marketing season is passed, the department said. Cattle marketing for the same period was up 10 per cent, with most of the decrease taking place since the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak.

Butterfat production is about 30 per cent above a year ago, the department said. Lack of rain caused a severe pasture shortage and many farmers were forced to feed to maintain milk flow.

Egg marketers reached a peak May 10, well above that of 1951. The regular seasonal increase was evident and egg quality had deteriorated sharply this year. Poultry demands in stores remained high with current marketales considerably in excess of last season.

Weekly Newspapers

Keeping Tab On Cruise Of Nation

(By Bruce West in Toronto)

While sitting reading the other day, it occurred to me how very important was the weekly newspaper. It is the only thing that is so important to the nation. And what a powerful thing it is.

Every now and then, on the national political scene, some of us get into some of our own papers.

And the mammoth size of the operation sometimes dazes us into the idea that they are fairly large publications.

In the journalistic world, in a sense, a newspaper is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

I don't know, but it seems to me that you would be interested before it had been told.

"Lilliputia" Vole Is No Enemy To Many Farmers

WINNIPEG, Man.—The "Lilliputia" vole, public enemy No. 1 to many Canadian farmers, was blamed for millions of dollars of crop damage across the prairies. The tiny, furry and extremely prolific prairie vole often is erroneously referred to as the Meadow Mouse.

Hitler's Mountain-Top Hideaway About To Be Wiped Out

Tourists Trek Daily Up Mountacidine
For a Last Look at the Hideaway

BERCHTSGADEN, Germany.—One wall is all that remains of Adolf Hitler's famous mountain-top hideaway, the Berghof. That too, will crumble under a blast of dynamite soon, if a German Alpine wind doesn't get there ahead of the German wrecking crew.

A group of American newsmen touring military installations in Germany may find demolition of the Berghof (Hitler's hideaway) a disappointment. The wrecking is not complete. The Germans were turning the Berghof house into a national shrine of the Fuhrer's invasion conference chambers. There, Hitler planned the Austrian invasion and the Munich pact.

Four miles up the crest of the Obersalzberg, over hidden as yet of the Berghof, the Fuhrer's famed Eagle's Nest stands intact. It is believed to be a secret hideaway, but Hitler actually spent little time in that alpine retreat. He only came to the Berghof to dine.

The dreams of tourists who daily trek up the mountain to get a last look at Berghof are mostly American.

Rare Disease Hits U.S. Hog Production
CHICAGO.—A once rare disease is expected to cause heavy losses in the nation's pig production this season, officials of the American Veterinary Medical Association said.

The disease, which usually appears in baby pigs has become so widespread it is now one of the most serious swine problems in the United States. AVMA officials say the disease, called infectious rhinitis, is spread in a place with such problems as filthy, unsanitary and insanitary slaughterhouses.

When animals are killed outright but rhinitis can stop gains to the point where hog raising is no longer profitable.

Unlike non-contagious flu, none of which is frequently contracted and rhinitis because of sneezing and coughing which is highly infectious and extremely infectious.

American authorities said careful selection of breeding stock and feeder pigs from clean herds will help keep this ailment at bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harris, who recently arrived from England, and are residing in Drumheller, were visitors at the Legion sports on Dominion Day. Before leaving for England in 1937, they had been managing the Queen's Hotel here for Stan Walker.

Major and Mrs. R. F. Allen, of Vancouver, arrived in Delia last Saturday night, and are the guests of Major J. L. Newman, son and daughter-in-law, at the farm. While here they attended the Legion sports, and renewed many old acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Crowlsey left last week for a month's vacation at the hotel's vac. They are guests at the hotel's vac. Vancouver, B. C.

Bill Newman was a visitor to Drumheller one day last week, and unfortunately got a ticket by the R.C.M.P. for parking.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cosovan and family, from Innisfail, are visiting the latter's parents and other relatives in Delia during the holiday.

Miss Ellen McCreight, of Victoria, B. C., is visiting her father and mother, who are residing at the farm home, convenient to Delia, where she will remain for some time.

It is reported that Major J. L. Newman has again entered the ranks of the beneficiaries. He was married in Calgary June 24 to Mrs. Roscoe, of Vancouver. The honeymoon was spent at Banff and Jasper. The happy couple are now at home on the farm, receiving numerous congratulations.

The weather has been somewhat unsettled during the past week, with some showers. Although fairly overcast and often threatening on Dominion Day, it remained dry for the Canadian Legion sports, with occasional bright sunshine and moderately warm temperatures. A light shower occurred around 9 p.m. with fine summer weather prevailing at this writing.

The Delia old-timers' annual picnic, to be held at Stanley Park, Vancouver, B.C., on Sunday, July 13, this year, according to all accounts, to be more successful than ever. Maj. and Mrs. Allen (who said they were planning to go) were reminding people of it while here on Dominion Day, inviting them to attend. John Olson, who is feeling younger and more sprightly every day, promised to be present, greeting Mr. Allen by both doing a walk in the rotunda of the hotel, to the amusement of those standing around.

Local and District Sports

The local branch Canadian Legion Dominion Day Sports passed off successfully under favorable weather, and very well attended. There were the usual bag games and other attractions, with a big band on night. We hope to give a fuller report next week.

Stanley Horkey, of Calgary, was a visitor in Delia during the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Todd, of Michieville, were visitors in Delia on Dominion Day, patronizing the Legion sports.

Mrs. E. A. Thompson, formerly of the Delia Post Office, was a visitor in Delia on Dominion Day attending the sports. Mrs. Thompson is shortly leaving for her home in Ontario.

Charlie Horkey, of Okotoks, was a visitor in Delia Tuesday, taking in the sports.

Bill Miller, from Okla., who had been running a grocery store there, but recently sold it, was a visitor in Delia this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Fitzsimmons and family, of Calgary, were visitors in Delia during the Dominion Day holiday, and took in the sports.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Morrison and family, of Halkirk, motored down here Tuesday to visit with the sports, and incidentally take in the sports.
